Even at TWENTY DOLLARS a man can acquire distinction in SAKS CLOTHES.

It is pertinent to remind you that we sell more higher priced clothes than does any other house in this city.

The reason for this is, that the man who pays $35 to $50 for his clothes knows that Saks' is the house par excellence for fine tailoring.

And it is obvious that a house which has made this sort of a reputation will hardly take any chances of jeopardizing that reputation, even in its lower priced garments.

The fact of the matter is, Saks garments at $20 have, by contact with our higher priced clothes, acquired much of the polish and distinction of their superiors.

They show the influence of association and environment, and are beyond doubt the cleverest, smartest suits and overcoats ever evolved at $20.

And the range of selection in fabrics and models is limited only by the capacity of the mills, on one hand, and by the vagaries of fashion, on the other.
